THE HARI-KARI IN JAPAN. - A correspondent of the New York Evening Post writes an account of the act of Hari-Kari committed by Taki, a Japanese nobleman, upon himself according to the law. He had been found guilty of an assault upon Christians at Hiogo, and was compelled to suffer this punishment. The writer says:

Taki ascended the low platform with a slow step and a determined mien. Here he prostrated himself several times in succession before the altar, his face each time touching the ground, and subsequently sat down upon the carpet with his back turned towards the altar, and with his friend, the Kaishaku, seated on his right side. One of the three Japanese officers now made his appearance, carrying a small table or dumb waiter, similar to those used in the temples upon the occasion of sacrifices, upon which lay, carefully wrapped up in paper, a Japanese dagger, about nine and a half inches in length, with a point fine as a needle and an edge as keen as a razor.

Kneeling down before the platform, he handed the dagger to the condemned, who reverentially took it, and after having lifted it with both hands above his head placed it on the crimson carpet in front of him. Then Taki made a deep obeisance, and in a voice without a tremor, and without faltering, gave utterance to the following words in Japanese: "It was I, and I alone, that gave the order to fire upon the foreigners at Kobe, without having received from any one the authority to do so .-I also fired upon them afterwards, when they tried to escape. Acknowledging my great sin and misconduct, I shall now proceed to cut open my bowels; and beg the gentlemen present to do me the honor to bear witness to the execution of the deed."

Having said this, he stooped down, and loosening his clothing let it fall down so that it exposed his body down to the loies. He took care to tie the sleeves of his tunic together below and behind the knees, to prevent his falling backwards, as a Japanese nobleman must always fall upon his face, according to the creed of the nobility. Then taking up the dagger and removing the paper covering he glanced for a moment upon the glittering blade with an expression in his face as if he were for the last time on earth collecting his thoughts and bidding, in his mind, all that he loved farewell. Then glancing up again and looking proudly round upon the spectators he firmly grasped the hilt and, burying the steel in the pit of the stomach, near the left side, drew it across the stomach towards the right, making a fearful gash. But not content herewith, he turned the knife in the wound and made an incision upwards about two inches in length. While this horrible deed took place his mouth was firmly set and not a sound was heard, while his eyes seemed to stare at the ceiling. For a moment, but a moment only, an expression of unutterable pain and agony came over his face, and, 'shutting the eyes, he staggered and tumbled forward.' At the same moment the "Kaishaku," who had been watching for this opportunity, sprung to his feet; a sword glittered in his hands, a sharp cutting gans, suitable for churches.

I AM AGENT FOR sound came through the air, then an ugly dull blow and a heavy fall; and the head of Taki Zenzaburo was severed from its mutilated

The deep and profound stillness of death ensued, interrupted only by the sound of the blood as it trickled from the headless body upon the ground below. Every face was pale with fear and horror; it was a moment never to be forgotten, and which I hope I may never again have occasion to see repeated

AN OLD TIME PLANTER.—How the moneyed man of Dixie was wont to do his travelling in the good old days, when he came North on his annual pleasure trip, is accurately told in a sketch which we find in the Saratogian, of Kittie Berry, a colored woman, seventy-five years of age, and for the last forty years a resident of Saratoga, who was buried last Sunday: "About the year 1813," we read, "a wealthy North Carolina planter, named Pollock, the owner of 1,500 slaves. was a regular visitor at Saratoga Springs. He was an old gentleman and a bachelor. It was his annual custom, during the heated period, to visit the North in his private carriage, accompanied by no one save two colored servants, Rueben Berry and one 'William.' He would drive from his estate to Richmond, Va., from thence to Washington, D. C., thence to Baltimore, Md., Philadelphia, Pa., New York city, Albany, Troy, Ballston, (where he would remain a few days,) and from there to this village, where he was a guest at Congress Hall, and later in the season would drive up to Lake George for a brief visit. He was very precise and eccentric in his habits. In his annual pilgrimage he would always arrive at the above places within twenty four or thirtysix hours of the exact time for years previous. His carriage was drawn by two splendid irongray horses, Reuben B. being the driver. The other servant, 'William,' rode a third horse as an out-rider, as was the custom at the time. The Reuben' mentioned above was the husband of Kittie Berry, deceased. She was born a slave in the Randolph family of Virginia, who afterwards gave her her freedom, and she shortly after became Mrs. Reuben Berry. During the early part of her married life she re-mained in the South, while her husband accompained his master on his visits to our celebrated springs. Mr. Pollock afterwards died from injuries received by being thrown from his saddle horse, Brutus, the same animal ridden by his out-rider, 'William,' A short time previous he had given Reuben and William their freedom, and on his death Reuben and his wife Kittie came north toSaratoga, and made this their home until cut down by death." How wonderfully things have changed since then. -Rochester Democrat.

This being expression is that of advancing age. This being path of nature, and indulging in pernicious a fact, it is not surprising that even injurious articles should have been prepared to supply the ing millions who wish to avoid premature gray hair. Under these circumstances it will scarcely be wondered at that NATTANS CRYSTAL DIS- Reflect that a sound mind and body are the VALUABLE REAL ESTATE FOR SALE. DISEASE OF IMPRUDENCE.

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-time sense of shame or dread of discovery deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease makes their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dinness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms. DISCOVERY will not use any thing else; but to those who have not tried this excellent article it is recommended that when they are again in many afficient of the mouth of the bones of the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commisseration till death puts a period to his dreadful suffering, by sending him to that undiscovered country "from whence no traveller returns."

It is a melancholy fact that thousands DIE victims to this terrible disease, through falling into the hands of ignorant or unskilful PRE-TENDERS, who, by the use of that deadly Poison, Mercury, &c., destroy the constitution, and incapable of curing, keep the unhappy suf-ferer month after month taking their noxious o injurious compounds, and instead of being re-stored to a renewal of Life, Vigorand Happiness, in despair leave him with ruined Health to sigh over his galling disappointment.
